THE CARDINAL

L'Envoi

*June time, and end of school,
And end of happy days;
For some this means freedom from book and rule,
For us it means the parting of the ways.*

*Out from our own world care-free now we go
To cast our lot into the wider part
Of this earth planet, some yet do not know
What they will do, not purposed true in heart.*

*While thus we stand on Life's threshold, dear God,
Help us to make our last decision right;
For some it will be unusually hard,
Keep us, then, always in Thy dear sight.*

*When, as we go with happy step and free
Our several ways, though we may drift apart—
Help us not to forget, and let our friendship be Still lingering as they should in every heart.*

HORTENSE EANES.

THE CARDINAL

MARGARET WITHERS

If you want a friend, go to Margaret. She has the qualities of a true and lasting one. Her lovely disposition and pleasing personality have won for her many friends at D. H. S. She is studious, thoughtful, and always ready to do her part. Everyone predicts a successful future for Margaret.

DOW COOLEY

Dow is not always jolly, but one need not be a close observer to tell by the light in his eyes and by his flashing smile that he has a strong and wholesome personality. Natural intelligence and great industry make him a leader in his studies. His unselfishness and loyalty toward his school insure him a place in the hearts of all the supporters of our high school. A person who makes a request of Dow is confident that the request will be carried out well. A good citizen of D. H. S., he will make a good citizen of his community and of his country.

HONORS: Assistant Editor of The Chatterbox;
Assistant Editor of THE CARDINAL.

ALICE SCHOFIELD

To those who know her, she is ever ready and willing to help when called upon; a friend to all and faithful and loyal from day to day; studious in classes and ever striving to succeed. She is governed by her eagerness for work, kindness of heart and thoughtfulness of others.

HONORS: Secretary of Jun-Sen-G Club, 1923-24; Member of Jeffersonian Literary Society.

THE CARDINAL

HELEN THERESA CADWALLADER

When is Helen not kind and considerate? Never. She is ever dependable and ready to help anyone. Helen is very quiet and has a disposition that has won for her a place in the hearts of many. She has also the qualities of the ideal student, and during her four years in high school she has excelled in all her classes. We expect big things from Helen and we know she will not fail us.

HONORS: Cast of "Powhatan"; Winner of Thrift Essay, 1922; Winner of Temperance Essay, 1922; Member of Debating Team, 1922-23; Member of Program Committee of Fay Carter Literary Society, 1922-23; Assistant Editor of The Chatterbox, 1922-23-24.

LEWIS FULFORD

Lewis may not be as studious as some we know, but he is so pleasing in manner that we have to overlook this. Everyone that has the chance to meet with Lewis knows that he is of a friendly nature. You may call on Lewis at any time and he is right there to help.

*Lewis can dance,
Lewis can sing,
Lewis is slow, but
Can do 'most anything.*

LELIA SNEAD

Lelia, with her soft and gentle manners, has won many friends. Lelia is very quiet and carries out the old saying, "Still waters run deep." She is among the first in her classes. We have found her, all through her years at High School, to be the ideal student. Her kind and generous heart will be long remembered by her many school friends. We wish you success, Lelia.

HONORS: Jeffersonian Literary Society.

THE CARDINAL

MAMIE WALL

Conscientious and wholesome seem the words best fitted to express Mamie's personality. We wonder if Mamie ever thought anything that wasn't sweet? Certainly she looks as if she thought only good things. "As a man thinketh in his heart so is he." We think of the wondrous goodness of this keen-minded young person.

JULIAN ADAMS

Lounge-lizard Julian, or the boy with the slow smile and pale face? Which will you choose for Julian Adams? Girls are his specialty and time never bothers him when surrounded by a sufficient number of pretty damsels. As for boys, Julian specializes and chooses very few.

KATHERINE GALLAGHER

We think of Katherine as one of the most reserved and quiet members of our Senior Class, but upon our becoming more intimately acquainted with her, other striking characteristics are revealed to us.

Her hearty laugh is really contagious, and many of us have been affected by it.

She has many friends, but probably her chief companion is her docrine. Who has ever seen Katherine without it?

During our last three High School years we have enjoyed Katherine's readings, and we expect her to accomplish great things along this line.

THE CARDINAL

CLARA VIRGINIA ANTHONY

In her dark brown eyes there is a mischievous gleam which you will surely find, once you look into them. With her gentle and unassuming manner, she wins her way wherever she goes. Clara does not have to say or do anything to let you know she is there; her vivid personality makes itself felt. Though quiet and dignified in class, she is a jolly good sport and always has plenty of school spirit. Whenever she has anything to say she says it in a clear, straightforward way. Loyalty is another outstanding characteristic of Clara's; she is ready to do her part on every occasion and she does well whatever she undertakes. Good-natured and fun-loving, Clara has a kind word for everyone. And her smiles! It is just as if so much bright sunshine were let into a dark, gloomy room.

HONORS: Jun-Sen-G Club.

ROBERT BOUSMAN

A person who is quiet, attentive and reliable is one to be admired. All these traits are found in Robert Bousman. At the High School games he is there with plenty of spirit and big-eyed interest. To find another pupil to take his place in his classes will be no easy task.

GRACE BARNES

She's the one everybody likes to go to when he wants sympathy. She's the one on whom you know you can depend, one who will never fail you. She is the friend everybody wants. You can never stay in a tight place with Grace; she will always find a way out of the difficulty if there is one. There is never any fun going on that she does not join, and there is almost always a happy look on her face, and a twinkle of fun in her eyes. Her eyes are an index to her soul. When she is happy they are blue, but when she is unhappy they are green. If you want an all-round sport take Grace. She's a real pal, one you can never forget.

HONORS: Basket-ball, 1922-23; Basket-ball Sub., 1922-23; Jeffersonian Literary Society.

THE CARDINAL

VIRGINIA CARTER

Here's to Virginia, our "Polly,"
Always happy, always jolly;
With two eyes of azure blue,
And her hair of sunny hue.

Always faithful to each class,
So it is with this fair lass;
Ever, ever studying late,
Success for her does await.

Sweet as the sweetest, good as the best,
Angelic creature, may you ever be blest!

GEORGE S. HUGHES

George S. has been with us from the very first grammar grade. We should feel lost in any gathering if we did not see a small but talkative boy with mischievous blue eyes. Very often we see a quizzical frown with a smile, and then we wait for him to say something sarcastic or funny. He is not smiling in this picture but he usually does smile. Here he must have tried to look dignified so as to deserve the honor of being president of his class. George can impersonate others very well, and we enjoy his impersonations. He has a good intellect and expresses his thoughts plainly yet beautifully.

HONORS: President of the Senior Class, 1923-24; Member of The Comet Staff, 1922-23; Chatterbox Staff, 1923-24; THE CARDINAL Staff, 1923-24; Hi-Y Club, Debating Team, 1924; President of Room 17, 1922-23.

HORTENSE EANES

*"She was active, stirring, all fire—
Could not rest, could not tire—
To a stone she might have given life."*

"Jack" is the kind of girl we all love. Whoever saw her when she was not ready for fun? She doesn't study; she doesn't have to. We are always glad to be around her, especially if she has her violin; and she is sweet about lending us her talent, too. When your violin has made you famous, don't forget your old classmates, Hortense!

HONORS: Champion Girl Reader in 1920-21; Vice-President Virginian Literary Society, 1921-22; Assistant Editor The Comet, 1922-23; Circulation Manager Chatterbox, 1923-24; Member of Orchestra; Class Poet.

THE CARDINAL

EVELYN WARREN

Reliable—that's Ebb. When asked to do someone a favor, she was never known to fail, but put her whole heart and soul into the accomplishment of the task. If it's a typist you want—call on Evelyn. If it's a pianist you are seeking, you'll find no better one. Efficient and steady, she is in every respect a good all-round girl.

GRACE GENTRY

Studiosness, dependability and neatness fitly describe Grace, but when the occasion arises she is not lacking in fun and joyousness. She graduated in music at R.-M. I. in 1922, and all who have heard her play realize that she is very talented. Her love for music expresses itself in her soft, Madonna-like face.

IRMA MOTLEY

There is usually a sparkle of fun in Irma's gray eyes, although she is so quiet and reserved that you wouldn't know it unless you knew her well. She studies very hard and succeeds in preparing her lessons satisfactorily. She has been in our midst only two years, but during that time she has made many friends. Irma likes to do a kind deed, and we like to ask her help, because we know we shall not be refused.

THE CARDINAL

LOUISE HILL

The very best of sports is "Lease," always ready to take part in anything old D. H. S. undertakes. There is a bit of sarcasm in her make-up, but this only adds to her distinctive charm. Has she a distinctive charm? Well, we should say. For who but her would dare write on so light a subject as "Tomato," when everyone else was writing on such subjects as "Duty" and "Friendship." In her distinctive charm you will find the things we love best—loyalty and friendliness.

HONORS: Cast of "Powhatan"; Treasurer of Girl Reserves, 1922-23; Social Leader of Jun-Sen-G Club, 1923-24; Jeffersonian Literary Society.

WILLIAM BARR

William Barr is one of the most affable and industrious students in the Class of '24. William has gained much credit in our esteem by his serious and studious attitude toward school life. Serious? He always seeks the humorous side of a question; yet he has been very industrious in the literary activities of the school. He is one that can be depended upon for his part. His is jovial and always willing to complete or carry out his part of a prank. One would recognize him by the twitching smile which is always playing upon his face.

HONORS: Charter Member of Jeffersonian Literary Society.

CAROLYN OGG

A quiet, demure little maid is Carolyn, who wins her friends through her sincerity, and keeps them by loyal appreciation. The ghost of a smile, and a confidential twinkle out of the corner of her dark eyes give her a very impressive manner, which will never be forgotten by the Class of '24. We all know that she will make a first-rate teacher some day.

HONORS: Member of The Comet Staff, '23; Member of the Glee Club; Jeffersonian Literary Society.

THE CARDINAL

ERLE RUCKER

Although a serious-minded young man, Erle is as genial and as companionable as anyone, on the proper occasion. He came to Danville High from Clifton Forge in 1922 and entered High School as a junior. Since that time he has shown himself above the average as a student. Erle is a charter member of the Jeffersonian Literary Society and a member of '23-'24 football squad.

IDA MANDLE

Always believing and trusting, certainly no truer friend could be found. That predominating will and constant readiness to help any true cause foretell a great future for you.

HONORS: Received Underwood Typewriting Medal; Jeffersonian Literary Society.

EMILY CALAWAY REAVES

Emily is calm and dignified but full of fun and life. When the task she undertakes is hard, her brown eyes flash with determination. Those who claim her as their friend could tell us of her true and loyal faithfulness. Sometimes she is a little pert, but then there is a flash of humor that keeps anyone from being offended. She is an all-round good sport.

THE CARDINAL

HELEN BOOTH

*"And her noble heart's the noblest, yes, and her sure faith's the surest;
And her eyes are dark and humid, like the depth and depth of lustre."*

"Wilkes" is sweet, loving, happy, and always ready for a good time. Everyone who knows her will say that, and surely "to know her is to love her." She is a girl in whom you can put your trust, one who will sympathize with you and be an ideal friend. She is attractive and winning in her manner. As she goes about from day to day, you think that here is one girl who is really gentle in her attitude toward all things; but if you really know her you will find that the fire is there, and when the occasion arises for it to burn it burns, and right merrily. Would there were many others like her!

JOHN HENRY LEE

A rather quiet, solemn-looking personality is John Henry Lee; yet there are times when mischief can't stay in the background, and then humor flashes out. John is a poet and a satirist, yet withal a friendly soul to those who are fortunate enough to know him. His favorite poet is Poe, and like that great poet, he longs for beauty.

HONORS: Joke Editor of THE CARDINAL.

INEZ MOTLEY

"Still water runs deep." This is only the beginning of what one may say of Inez. She is neat, not only in appearance, but also in her work. The times are rare when she does not know what to say and how to say it effectively. People depend on her without a thought that she will fail. When once she sets her heart on a thing she is going to have it. A truer friend cannot be found. She has a personality that makes one remember her. At her best she can't be beat.

HONORS: Jeffersonian Literary Society; Speaking Contest.

THE CARDINAL

SARAH McDANIEL

In her sweet, quiet way, our big-hearted Sarah makes friends wherever she may chance to go. She is always ready to work and please those about her. You may think she is always silent, but wait, you'd be surprised at her variety. Sarah is lovable, capable and true.

HONORS: Jeffersonian Literary Society; Jun-Sen-G Club.

CHAMPE BROADDUS

Here's to Champe, who with his humor keeps all around him laughing. Champe has chosen a strong academic course which we hope will prepare him for later life. He has taken part in all the school's activities. In athletics, Champe has done his best. When it comes to clog dancing in the minstrel, he can't be beaten, and jokes—my! he's fine. Public speaking is another one of his many talents. Here's the best o' luck to you, Champe, in this, and the greatest possible success in all your life's endeavors!

HONORS: Member of Monogram Club, Football Letterman, '23; Advertising Manager Chatterbox, '23-'24; Advertising Manager CARDINAL, '23-'24; Member Cotillion Club, '23; Sergeant-at-Arms, Jeffersonian Literary Society, '23-'24; End Man, Minstrel, '23; Member Minstrel Play, '23; Member of Glee Club, '23-'24; Member Jeffersonian Literary Society; Public Speaking Contest, '24; Reading Contest, '23; Freshman Reporter Comet, '20-'21.

KATHERINE DALE CARTER

Always smiling, always gay, Katherine can make friends with anyone. She tries to please everyone, as she dislikes being disagreeable. She asserts her authority as "big sister," and Mary has to do just as she says while they're in school. Does she? Katherine likes music and enjoys playing her violin very much. "Country Carter" had rather stay in the country and go 'possum hunting than go to a dance in town. Everybody likes Katherine.

HONORS: Orchestra, '21-'22; Glee Club; Jeffersonian Literary Society.

THE CARDINAL

SARAH BERMAN.

Being faithful to your studies means a great deal, Sarah. With your true, blue eyes, pleasing personality, and winning ways you will certainly attain the heights of fame.

HONORS: Winner of Thrift Essay in 1922; Member of Athenian Club in 1920; Member of Fashion Show; Member of Jefferson Literary Society.

ALGER TURNER

To the average person it would seem that Alger bears an unsmiling face, but to those who know him well the radiance of his smile is a wonderful thing. Alger is a student. He likes to do things well and does them in this fashion. He is never content with a lesson half finished. "Give your best" is his motto.

HONORS: Winner of Public Speaking Contest in D. H. S.; Member Orchestra; Member Baseball Squad; Minstrel Circle, '23; Member The Chatterbox Staff.

ANNA BARNES DURHAM

Anna is of the brunette type, kind and free-hearted to all. She likes swimming, skating and hiking. Her stature is not so tall, but her voice—that's splendid. Personality? Always the same. If a friend in need, tell Anna, indeed. Oh, Anna—she's always the same.

THE CARDINAL

BESSIE RAMSEY

*Bess is always ready to have some fun,
Especially when she can tease folk;
But the thing she likes better than all the rest,
Is for someone to tell a good joke.*

Bess follows the old saying in being "little but loud." When there is anything going on, you may always be sure that she will know it. You might as well tell her, because somehow she will find it out.

HONORS: Jeffersonian Literary Society; Jun-Sen-G Club.

JANIE GAMMON

Janie, a quiet, conscientious girl, makes us proud to have her as a member of our Senior Class. Always with an intelligent look on her face, she has a smile for us all. Janie studies hard and wins. She spends much of her spare time in reading.

HAZEL ROMAN

Her school spirit is shown by her ready contributions to school needs. Simplicity is an outstanding characteristic of hers. That and her tone of refinement, help to make her a true student of D. H. S. She has been a member of the following: Virginia Literary Society, 1920-22; and Fay Carter Literary Society,—now the Thomas Jefferson Literary Society—and The Athenian History Club.

THE CARDINAL

MABLE EMPRESS BRADNER

When Mable looks at you with her big, brown eyes, you at once feel her winsome personality. She is an industrious student, excelling in Latin and Spanish. Mable plays the violin exceedingly well, and we believe that she will some day become an accomplished musician. We have always found her a loyal and true friend, ever ready to do her duty.

JAMES BRUCE

James holds in a large measure the esteem and confidence of his class. He has been an admired and popular member of it throughout his high school career. Possessing dignity that comes from character and worth does not detract from the warmth of his friendly smile. His fine mind and as good character, his genuine friendliness and helpfulness in all that our class has undertaken mark him as one possessing the qualities of leadership. The Class of '24 expects great things of you, James, and it will not be disappointed.

HONORS: Secretary of the Senior Class; Assistant Editor of THE CARDINAL; Exchange Editor of The Chatterbox; Assistant Distributing Editor of The Chatterbox, 1922-'23.

EVELYN BAROODY

*"An out-door girl,
She stars in athletics."*

"Ninkie" is a most versatile person. In every phase of school life she finds her place. Not only is she excellent in recitation, but she has won fame for herself on the basket-ball team. "Ninkie" gets all the fun possible out of life, but she combines her work with play, so she is one of our best students. Look at the honors she has won.

THE CARDINAL

HENRY LEA

Here's to Henry, always full of mischief and fun! He is always at the games, night or day. Anything in business is his line. He is very likely to succeed in whatever he undertakes to do. Henry is a good classmate to have and a good school citizen.

ALMA LOIS LOCKWOOD

Although she is among the youngest of the Seniors, she is very studious, a fact shown by her high grades. She came to us from R.-M. I., and we feel that we had much to gain. Although she seems serious—she is ever ready for fun and is a lovable companion. Those who know her well are charmed by her sweet disposition and winning ways.

MARY ELIZABETH CLARK

Mary carries around with her an air of dignity and high seriousness. She is dignified to some extent, and somewhat proud, but this is only the outside personality. Underneath all this, the fun is pushing itself to the surface. It is scrounging to get out. When it does—where is dignity? We like the serious air. What and where would the world be to-day if it were not for thought, seriousness, and pride? Yet, some way we like better the mischievous, jolly and sunny side of Mary. Who does not know her winning smile? What person, who has been with her, has not felt her strong personality and influence? What friend is it who does not know how true and loyal she is?

HONORS: Jun-Sen-G Club; Cast of "Powhatan"; Jeffersonian Literary Society; Glee Club.

THE CARDINAL

CATHERINE RUCKER

She is the artist of our class,
We tell of her gift with pride;
Around the palette and brushes of this lass
The illusive imps of genius reside.
But don't you ever think the name
Of this maiden will be the same
By which she'll be known to fame.
To tell outright would be a shame,
But if into the secret you'd see,
I'll give you one clue—Washington and Lee.

HONORS: Art Editor of THE CARDINAL, '24;
Treasurer Room 13; Member of Jefferson Literary Society.

JAMES ZABAWA

James Zabawa, or better known as "Jimmie," is a boy who is generally popular. He takes interest in all athletics and is jolly and always full of fun. But he can be serious when he wants to, especially when he is talking to Robert. We do not know what "Jimmie" is going to make of himself, but we certainly wish him all the success possible in future life.

GLADYS POE

Poe is interested in all branches of athletics, but especially in basket-ball. You should see her as she jumps about on the floor in her eagerness to get the ball. Full of pep, and always on the job—that's Poe. She is a friend worth having, always loyal and true and ready to lend a helping hand. Poe goes into everything with the determination to put the very best that she has into it, and she generally succeeds.

HONORS: Member of Jun-Sen-G Club, 1924; Sub., Basket-ball Team, '22-'23, '23-'24; Representative in Reading Contest, '23-'24; Winner of Junior Thrift Essay, '23; Girls' Athletic Reporter for The Chatterbox, '22-'23, '23-'24.

THE CARDINAL

HELEN HODGES

*"Love and tho't and fun are free;
All must flirt in their degree."*

Helen is our vamp! She has more dates than any girl in the class. Her striking beauty, with her jolly good nature is a drawing card. She is the blonde type, possessing every feature to perfect her prettiness. We can tell her at a distance, by her loud talking and hearty laugh. With her abundance of wit she delights in "springing a new one" on her many friends. We enjoy Helen's music and take a pride in claiming her as a piano graduate of '24.

HONORS: Chatterbox Staff, '23-'24; Glee Club, '23-'24; Jeffersonian Literary Society, '23-'24.

ALGER RUFFIN

Though we sincerely hope "Bitts" the best of luck, we certainly hate to see him leave. Since he became one of us in 1920, he has been a willing helper and energetic supporter in all branches of school activity. Ranking as one of our best athletes, he is always in the game, full of fight and giving the best that's in him for old D. H. S. He is the possessor of a friendly disposition and a personality of sunshine, and is one of these easy-going, attractive people whom you just can't keep from liking. However, he is a perfectly normal boy who dances, sings, and has a peculiar habit of sitting double every morning in Room 16.

HELEN STEPHENS

Helen, one of the most popular members of our Senior Class, is loved and admired by everyone. She always has a smile and a kind word for everyone she meets, and by this she wins many friends. By the mischievous twinkle in her eye we know that she is always ready for a good time. She is often in trouble, but her friends soon come to her rescue. Helen never shirks her duties, and she has always been loyal to old D. H. S.; therefore, we hate to give her up.

THE CARDINAL

OLIVIA MOBLEY

"Ve Ve" is one of the most popular and attractive girls in our school. She is always ready to take part in all school and outside activities. Although her hair is red, her temper is not violent. On the contrary, she is always happy and jolly, and her red head and sunny smile have won her many friends. Olivia is an all-around girl, with plenty of fun and gayety, and yet is serious when the occasion demands seriousness. She is good in her studies, in athletics and in all her various activities.

JOHN WEBER

John Melvin Weber will be remembered by all of us as the friendly "Johnny" of Danville High School. When someone was needed to arouse the school spirit, Johnny was always called on. Although John did not take part in athletics, he could always be counted on for support of every team. No one can say how active Johnny was in school and give him justice, but let his honors speak for themselves.

HONORS: Exchange Editor of The Chatterbox, '23; Cheer Leader for School, '23; Vice-President of "Hi-Y" Club, '23; Secretary and Treasurer of Athletic Association, '24; Business Manager of The Chatterbox, '24; Secretary and Treasurer of Jeffersonian Literary Society, '24; Business Manager Annual, THE CARDINAL, '24; Member of Minstrel Circle, '23; Member of Minstrel Circle, '24; President of "Hi-Y" Club, '24.

MARY CARTER

Talking is Mary's long suit. Many people do not know and understand her, but those who do, love her dearly. Underneath her jesting sarcasm one finds that Mary is the sweet, friendly and lovable girl who is always ready to lend a helping hand. Mary delights us with her excellent reading, for in this she has a decided talent. You can always find "Country Carter" in a crowd, and most of the time she is the chief entertainer on account of her laughter provoking wit. Mary takes the initiative in everything and seems to enjoy bossing her older sister around. All summed up—Mary is frank and fine.

HONORS: Jeffersonian Literary Society, '23-'24; Program Committee of Literary Society, '24.

THE CARDINAL

RUBY DAVIS

Ruby is a friend to everybody. She is one who is willing to help her fellow-classmates in every way she can. She is kind and congenial and always has a kind word for everyone she meets. She is faithful to her work and has always stood by and supported old D. H. S. Her quiet but sweet disposition makes us love her. She is one of the faithful members of the Jeffersonian Literary Society.

HILMA HALL

What is Hilma dreaming about? Is it study or mischief—or love? Of course Hilma indulges in writing poetry sometimes; but shouldn't you like to see some of the poems she doesn't have to do for class work? If Hilma sets that determined mind of hers to work on some big problem, we shall see great results.

VELNA BARKER

With her quiet, modest, and unassuming manner, Velna has won the respect and admiration of all who know her. She has been a good student and has aided the school in its various activities. That she is industrious is clearly shown by the fact that she has tackled and conquered all the mathematics offered in her High School course. We recognize in her one striving to obtain the finest things which life has to afford.

Senior Class History

ON September the fifteenth, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one, a band of wanderers, commonly known as Freshmen, stopped in their course and decided to settle at D. H. S., the land of sunshine and happiness. They thought that surely now all their worries were over, but lo! again they must suffer many hardships. Half of the colony at first almost died from exposure (to the constant batterings of the Sophs), and then, since they were always making blunders, they were the chief object of ridicule and mockery to the older settlers.

They wanted no sympathy nor help in their troubles, but tried to keep up a stiff front, shoulder their burdens and work with a smile. However, they could not tolerate the term "Rat" which their elders bestowed on them, and from this name they shrank like the sunflower from the rain. So they determined to work and make a name for themselves, and finally, in the spring of '22 after many trials and tribulations, and after learning to be thrifty and after writing prize thrift essays, they assumed the name Soph, and thus entered their second year.

Things were much better this year. Those who had formerly mocked them, seemed to shake their hands in admiration and to honor the name Soph. They were allowed to enter more of the activities and had more privileges. It was a happy lot who joined the Hi-Y Club, for only he who has accomplished something can be happy. They hiked, camped, and entered into all physical educational courses, so that they would be better fit and more able to reach their goal.

Then in the midst of all these activities, a weak, tottering stranger came into their fold and asked for support, in return for which he would make them known to the outside world. Although weak, he was so loquacious that they nicknamed him The Chatterbox, and they all contributed to his welfare and protection. Sometimes they seemed to neglect him, but after being reminded they were back on the job, and treated him so well that he was soon on his feet and became one of their chief assets.

Not only did these Sophs work for The Chatterbox, but for the school as a whole, diligently and faithfully, till the close of their second year. Then, promoted a step higher in rank and esteem, they became distinguished with the name of Junior, and started on their third year, happy and proud.

Again they bent to the wheel; work had no terrors for them. They were gaining—gaining ground and knowledge. They must reach the goal or die!

Then came the fashion show and Old-fashioned Choir. What fun they had preparing for the opening night! They showed their true talent and æsthetic qualities and put the show over the top.

Later came some more fun, the Junior-Senior reception. They entertained their upper classmates and saw how it felt to be Seniors.

Meanwhile, The Chatterbox was sticking to his promise and advertising them everywhere. More people came to see the games and athletic contests, and D. H. S. was known as the school that did things!

THE CARDINAL

With the aid of Miss Hyla Bagley, their dear Junior teacher, they came through the third year better able to take up their duties as dignified Seniors. Seniors—how much that word meant to them and how important they felt!

At last they had advanced from the bottom almost to the top. One more year till the last home stretch, and that year flew by like a fleeting dream.

First, they organized the Jeffersonian Literary Society. At these meetings there were discussions on the latest topics, musical numbers, debates, and such things as broaden the intellect.

Then came the Lyceum Course—very interesting programs given by some of the most talented people. The proceeds of these courses went to help make a cafeteria—the one desire of the pupils. And the Seniors were glad that it was finished before they left, because this meant having wholesome, hot food every day.

Intermingled with the regular duties were the usual debating, public speaking, and reading contests, all of which were very interesting. This year they had some unusually good contestants, who worked hard for the laurels for D. H. S.

As a diversion from the daily routine, the Seniors had their first get-together party. This, as the name implies, was to make all better acquainted, and although late, it served the purpose, and was an example for all other classes to follow. This party was at D. H. S. on March the twenty-first, the first day of spring, and perhaps this accounted for the joy that abounded. Then, too, for once every one ate to his heart's content.

Now, as I draw to a close, I must give an account of the reception that the jolly Juniors gave the Seniors. This party is not likely to be forgotten, for they entertained in the best fashion yet; and games and refreshments I'll not give a list of, for fear you'll indulge in vain longings.

Last came the Senior play. It was a howling success in every sense of the word, and Hollywood had nothing on our cast.

Then with the help of the wisest of advisers and teachers, Miss Charles Anthony, most of us came safely through examinations, and the Class of '24, with Helen Cadwallader and Dow Cooley as leaders, ended one of the most successful sessions in the history of D. H. S.

Each of the sixty graduates proudly carried away his diploma, for this was the end of eleven years of hard work, but in reality the beginning of life's journey.

Father Relents

JIM McFERSON stopped at the branch as he came in from the field where he had been plowing hard all day. He watered his horses. Just as he started to open the gate to go into the barn lot, Joe Robinson, a friend who lived near, drove up in his car.

"Hello, Jim. Been working pretty late, haven't you?" he called, as he came to a stop.

"Yes, I have put in a full day to-day. Father's going to put in a large wheat crop this fall. He thinks there is bound to be a mend in prices after this big slump. Then besides he is sowing a lot of crimson clover. He always turns crimson clover under, in the spring, on the land he intends to plant in corn."

"You will be at that party over at Burton's this evening, won't you?"

"I don't know, Joe; I am tired and have several chores to do yet. I doubt whether I shall feel like going."

"That's too bad. You work too hard. You are going with me to the university next week, aren't you? We would have fine times together."

"You know father is opposed on principle to my studying agriculture at school. Anyway, he says I have got to stay here and work till I'm twenty-one; and when he has set his head there's no way of changing it."

"Well," Joe started his car, "I hope you can make some arrangements to go. So long." "Good-bye."

The car rolled off down the road, and Jim took his horses into the barn.

John McFerson, Jim's father, was one of the wealthiest farmers in Bradford County. He was as a child one of a large but poor family. By hard work, stinginess, and native Scotch shrewdness in business, he had succeeded better, financially, than any of his neighbors. He had done without all comforts and luxuries, and had spent only what he was forced to spend for living expenses. The money he saved in this manner he invested in land. As soon as one piece was paid for, he added another to his farm. In this way he had built up a farm of hundreds of acres of highly improved land. Recognizing its money-making value, he had built a fine barn for his stock; but his house was small and shabby and cheaply furnished.

When that night at supper Jim broached the subject of going to the university, his father flatly refused. His mother undertook to remonstrate.

Then his father exploded with wrath. "Don't mention that infernal subject again! I have said that Jim is not going, and that is the end of it."

"Jim went to bed tired in body, but angry in spirit. He stayed awake a long time, thinking. He knew that his father was unwilling to let him go to college, mainly on account of stinginess. He wanted Jim's work on the farm, and did not want to spend any money for college expenses. Jim finally decided to leave home. He would go to town, get work, and when he had saved two or three hundred dollars he would work his way through college with the help of that.

THE CARDINAL

Jim's father, though very angry at his decision, did not force him to stay. Though stubborn and stingy, he would not go to that length. He would let the boy go; Jim would find his mistake and be willing to return.

After some little job hunting, Jim found a job with the publishing house. It did not pay any high salary. The margin above his board did not allow him to save much. But anyway, he would save what he could, and perhaps he could eventually find a better job.

He had to work only eight hours a day. He had been putting in twelve and more on the farm, so he felt like a gentleman of leisure. He spent most of his evenings in the library, for he was a lover of reading. Besides, most other amusements cost money, and were not instructive, and he must save money. He wrote to his mother every week, and in return received letters of encouragement.

Old John McFerson missed the boy from his home. It was not only his help that the father missed. The house seemed lonely without him. He missed his lively spirits and the cheerfulness that overwork did not entirely overcome. When he came in from work in the afternoon he seemed to be interested in whether or not a letter had come from Jim. He sometimes asked his wife if Jim was yet tired of city life.

His wife was wise, so she spoke little of Jim, and would not, of her own accord, satisfy the curiosity and interest she knew her husband had, but would not express.

Almost a year had passed since Jim left home. He had not saved much money, and it looked as if he would not be able to enter college in the fall.

John McFerson seemed to have grown several years older in the one year. He was not quite so close or as interested in business as formerly. His rheumatism became so bad that he grew to be almost an invalid, and was confined to his bed near the first of August. He was still worried over Jim and lonely because of his absence. One day as he lay watching his wife at her ironing he was moved to speak.

"Jane," he said, "if you would write to Jim, perhaps he could come home."

"But you know," replied his wife, concealing her joy, "that he is trying to save up money for college."

"I would pay that," he promised.

"Good, John! I shall write him to-day."

His father's sickness, and his wanting to see him, together influenced him to go home.

Jim was glad to see the farm once more. After all, it was home, and he had had some good times here, in spite of his father.

His mother met him at the gate, embraced him, and led him in to his father.

"Oh! I'm sorry, Dad, to see you sick," cried Jim, as he came in.

"I'm glad to see you, Jim. Come over and shake hands. After you've seen after things here a little, you will go to the university."

Woodrow Wilson

In the hush of a Sabbath day
Death called our war-chief away.
He who gave for us his life
And led our nation through years of strife,
Safely and gently fell asleep,
And o'er his body nations weep.
The world has lost a leader, brave,
But though he sleeps in a soundless grave
He cannot die, for his spirit lives.
His days among the dead have passed
And life around him we behold;
A halo round his head is cast,
He walks on streets all paved with gold;
He sings the songs the angels sing,
He lives his life with God;
This world no sorrows to him bring
As when upon this earth he trod.
O world, we need not weep for him,
For death is but the break of dawn—
The waking from a weary night
To the gladness of another morn.

Last Will and Testament of the Senior Class

WE, the Senior Class of Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-four of the Danville High School, being of sound mind and a generous disposition do make, publish and declare this instrument to be our last will and testament.

FIRST: To the Juniors we will our room, including the dictionary, THE CARDINAL, and the right to become Seniors if they pass their work.

SECOND: Champe Broadus wills to Marvin Watson his standing in class, which is slightly over six feet. Helen Hodges wills to Anne Ferree her rank as biggest vamp. "Bits" Ruffin wills to George Franklin his rank as best athlete. Helen Cadwallader wills her ability and industry as a student to Margaret Holland. George S. Hughes wills his talkativeness during class periods to Julian Meade.

THIRD: We bequeath to the citizens of Danville the right to build a new High School: to those who supported the bond issue for schools, our appreciation; to those who opposed it, since they opposed a measure that would have given Danville a less crowded and a better high school and increased the city's reputation for doing things, a naught with the rim erased.

FOURTH: We will to the teams of D. H. S. the best of luck.

FIFTH: We will to Miss Bessie the right to have her picture taken as often as possible; to Mr. Moye, a toothpick for use in the fourth period study hall; to Mr. Rolston, some dumb-bells, on condition that he use them to reduce; to Miss Hyla, a class with such an aesthetic sense that they will be delighted with Keats's Ode to a Grecian Urn; to Mr. Stone, an old maid school-teacher; to Miss Grace, a piece of chalk and a string; to Mr. Poindexter, a class quiet enough to hear his lectures; to Miss Hollifield, a class that can learn Latin; to Miss Roudabush, the right a parler francais all she wishes.

SIXTH: To Miss Anthony we bequeath the assurance that we have learned a great deal of English during our Senior year, our very high esteem, and our appreciation for her piloting us so well through our last year in High School.

We will to Mr. Hall many more years as Principal of Danville High School, as aid and inspiration to the students, and the opportunity to carry out his progressive plans for the betterment of the High School.

As testimony of the high regard we have for Mr. Cook, we appoint him executor of this will and direct that he shall have full authority to carry out the provisions of this will as herein given.

Witness our hand and seal this twenty-seventh day of May, Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-four.

The Athletic Association has for its prime purpose the sponsoring of all athletic activities of the High School; namely, football, baseball, basket-ball, tennis and track. All financial management is carried on through the officers of the association and the athletic director. The captains, managers, officers of the association, a faculty adviser, and the athletic director comprise the athletic council, which governs most of the activities of the association. It is through the athletic association that all letters or monograms are awarded to those who participate in the various sports. Through the efforts of the athletic director, primarily, those who take part in the various sports are taught the following ideals: Clean speech, true sportsmanship, fair play, and clean athletics. The association looks with disfavor on all things that pertain to unfairness and unclean athletics.

To Athletics

To that which makes a man,
Which is known throughout the land,
Which in itself is real life,
Though by some is called a strife,
To that we pour our praise.

Oft the blood and dirt on a face
Of one, who love to run thy race,
Take from thee another glory;
But blood and dirt tell not the stor,
For thou—thou makest a man.

Time has given its place to thee;
For older men thy worth can see;
They are the ones who give thee fame,
For they have always played the game;
Thou hast made them—men.

Though often thou soilest a goodly face,
And though some give thee not thy place,
Yet, to thee belongs the highest praise,
Thou hast done that which lives always,
Thou hast made many real men.

THE CARDINAL

Hi-Y Club

JOHN WEBER	President
MARVIN WATSON	Secretary-Treasurer
RUSSELL MYERS	Parliamentarian
HOFFMAN CULPEPPER	Sergeant-at-Arms
S. B. HALL, L. G. WILSON, E. G. CORWINE	Advisers
MR. WHITTINGTON	Leader

REASONS FOR SUPPORTING THE HI-Y CLUB

(1) "In union there is strength." This is a continental and world-wide movement of high school boys for a common purpose.

(2) Out in Indiana at the State High School Basket-ball Tournament, the best and cleanest athlete is awarded a medal. The Hi-Y Club is an organization that includes the best from all activities—football, baseball, basket-ball, track, debating, dramatics, journalism, etc.

(3) The ideals of the club are such that membership itself is the highest recommendation to the outside world for any boy.

(4) The association with boys of the very highest moral standards is an education in itself.

(5) All boys should unite for clean living, clean speech, clean athletics, and clean scholarship—a movement to put your school at the head of the list in all worth while things.

(6) A successful life is a life of service. Every boy is given an opportunity to render a great and lasting service to his school and community.

(7) And finally, it trains boys for Christian leadership in the school and in the community.

The Bachelors' Club

PURPOSE: To create and promote laziness everywhere.

The members of this club come from many walks of life. There are some who are cake-eaters and ladies' men; some who claim to be woman-haters (of course there is no such thing); some who are athletes, and many others that I will not mention.

The leader of the club is a quiet, reserved gentleman. His disposition is of such a character that all the members respect his word as they would a law. If he chooses, he may bodily remove any member from the premises (usually George Squirt Hughes, Esq.)

The club room is open at all hours of the day and night, except when the keeper is away or asleep.

Some of the greatest debates of the age have originated here. Among these, "Resolved: That Joe White Trundle is not crazy but is just foolish," brought out strong discussion. The club decided unanimously in favor of the negative.

A striking characteristic of the members of the club is, that they do not hesitate to discuss any of their love affairs or other personal problems (even "Little Mot" and Vic Blair talk about their girls here).

A typical scene in the club is as follows: Dump yelling for everybody to be quiet; Bennie Edwards and Vic Blair playing chess; the victrola going continuously; George S. Hughes and John Ragland singing "Down on the Farm," Monk Clark in an argument with someone; "Little Mot" drawing a picture or raising a racket; Julian Skinnell sore at everybody because he is living;—all this going on amid great clouds of pipe and cigarette smoke.

Perhaps you would like to know just who are members of this club. It would take too long to name them all, so I will give only a few of them: First, Harry Dump Twom Wooding Spencer, Owner, Leader, Poet, and Artist; John Henry Lee, Pugilist, Friend, and Poet; Erle Rucker, Lord of Confusion; Little Motley, Artist and Assistant Lord of Confusion; Julian Skinnell, Musician; George Squirt Hughes, the Greatest GRIPE ever known; John Ragland, Cake-eater and Vocalist; John Weber, Official Phonograph Player; Vic Blair, Athlete and Artist.

In the near future the members of the club will have a ceremony to celebrate the reconditioning of the radio set.

LONG LIVE OUR DUMB-BELL CLUB!

The civic betterment club was having some shade trees planted when one of the ladies interested passed by: "I see you are digging out the holes," she said to a laborer.

"No mum," came the answer, "I'm digging out the dirt and leaving the holes."

Runt: "Why have you got your stockings on wrong side outward?"

Red: "There is a hole on the other side."

"Gee whiz, I wish Ma was a Christian Scientist."

"Why?"

"She made me take a dose of castor oil last night."

Miss Proctor: "Did you shoot anything, Teddy?"

Mr. Rolston: "Yes, a duck."

Miss Proctor: "What! a wild one?"

Mr. Rolston: "No, but the farmer was wild."

"It's faith to a girl; hope to a young woman and charity to an old maid."

THE CARDINAL

"Remember," said the teacher, "that no man ever left this earth and returned."

"There were two," spoke up one shining light.

"Who?"

"The Wright brothers."

Bits: "Are you a suitor for Helen's hand?"

John: "Yes, but I didn't."

Bits: "Didn't what?"

John: "Suit her."

"What do you think of Squirt?"

"He reminds me of a river."

"How come?"

"The biggest part of him is his mouth."

"Do you know that Friday is an unlucky day?"

"I know it is."

"Why, Washington, Napoleon, Tennyson, and Gladstone were born on Friday."

"Yes, and every blamed one is dead."
